

Our New Architecture and the Many World Cultures

An Open Letter to Classicist and Traditional Architects

Christopher Alexander

This essay first appeared on the TradArch list-server at the University of Miami, October 2002.

My Dear Colleagues,

In the last few weeks I have been reading many contributions to the TradArch listserv. I have not said anything, up until now, because I have simply been enjoying the community, the joy expressed in ancient things, and ancient wisdom, the renewal of the right to be careful with buildings and to take pains with details of buildings. Above all, I have enjoyed seeing the way many of you talk to each other, respect each other, and try, genuinely, to talk.

http://www.katarxis3.com/Alexander %20Many Cultures.htm